

Body text with a footnote¹ in it, and a second one² further along the paragraph so the two are set one after another at the foot of the page.

The quick brown fox jumps over the lazy dog while the printer waits for a page that never comes, and the compositor sets another line of type. The quick brown fox jumps over the lazy dog while the printer waits for a page that never comes, and the compositor sets another line of type. The quick brown fox jumps over the lazy dog while the printer waits for a page that never comes, and the compositor sets another line of type.

¹The footnote rule sits above the footnote text, separated from the body by footnotesep.

²A second note.