

Before the abstract, one ordinary paragraph of body text so the page has a reference line set in the body face at the full measure.

Abstract

This abstract is set by the article class in `\small` (9 pt at a 10 pt base) and indented on both sides by the class's abstract margins, so both the face size and the measure differ from the body text around it.

After the abstract, one more ordinary paragraph of body text at the full measure, which is where the two sides should line up again.
